ALEX HANNUM

AGE: 33
HOMETOWN: Torrance, Calif
COLLEGE: University of Southern California
BORN: Los Angeles

Sgt. York
OLD SARGE

The career of Alex Hannum has had many ups-and-downs but the fabulous turn of events that led to his taking over the helm of the Hawks in mid-January of 1957 could very easily make an exciting motion picture....Reviewing briefly the past season - Hannum was a member of the Hawks for a season and a half, coming to the then Milwaukee Hawks from Rochester in December of 1954....He remained with the Hawks until the end of the 1955-56 season when he was given his unconditional release in order that he may make a deal for himself....Since it was felt the Hawks wanted to rebuild their front-line with younger talent....He joined Fort Wayne but was released by that club in December of last season....At that time the Hawks were shorthanded and jumped at the chance to secure the veteran Californian even though they realized he could not be a full-time performer...However, it was felt that Hannum could play from ten to fifteen minutes a game and give the club a lift defensively especially in playing the league's tough, big men like Clyde Lovellette, Vern Mikkelson, Larry Foust - to name a few....When Red Holzman resigned as coach of the Hawks. Slater Martin was asked to take over the helm of the team by club president Ben Kerner....Martin found that he was unable to concentrate on coaching andplaying and asked Hannum to help him with the coaching and make the necessary substitutions....After a week of this arrangement, Martin asked Kerner to relieve him of his coaching duties and suggested that Kerner appoint Hannum the head coach. ...Under the dual coaching of Martin and Hannum, the Hawks had won four and lost only one....Alex took over, led the club out of the cellar and to the Western division crown....and to the finals of the and within two seconds of pro basketball's world title....His vigerous leadership and determination was instilled in the players and the Hawks captured the hearts of basketball fans everywhere.... Alex has been a court standout since his high school days....He attended Alexander Hamilton high school in Los Angeles, graduating in 1942 after earning All-City honors for two years....He attended USC where he made the varsity as a freshman....In service from 1943 to 1946 he played considerable AAU basketball....He served in the Army Medical Corps as a Physical Reconditioning Instructor.. ..An AAU All-American as a member of the Los Angeles Shamrocks, he reentered USC in 1946....Hannum turned professional in 1948 with the Oshkosh All-Stars of the National Basketball League....He then was with Syracuse in 1949-50, when the club won the world title....moved to Baltimore in 1951 for half a season then was sold to Rochester and stayed with that club until he joined the Hawks in December of 1954....An All-American in college as a high-scoring center, he was better known as a defensive standout in the pro ranks....He retired this year....If the league had a Coach of the Year award last season, Hannum would have won in a breeze....A great exponent of the running game....

EMMETT KELLY

(Emmett Kelly will appear at all Sunday afternoon games - Dec. 8, Dec. 22, Jan. 5, Jan. 12, Jan. 19, Jan. 26, Feb. 2, Feb. 16, and Mar. 2)

One of the most beloved American entertainers of all-time, Emmett Kelly, whose name is synanamous with laughter, will appear at all Sunday home games of the St. Louis Hawks this year - and youngsters from eight to eighty are invited to see the most famous of all circus clowns.

Born about four miles from a little town called Houston, in Texas County, Missouri, 60 years ago, Emmett's love for the circus and his god-given gift of making people laugh has won him the affection of millions all over the world.

The color, the noise, the excitement of the midway were what drew young Emmett Kelly away from the little farm in Kansas over forty-five years ago. From the moment he saw his first circus parade, Emmett's one ambition was to be a performer in that glorious, gaudy, world. Fashioning a back-yard trapeze for himself, he learned enough tricks to impress the manager of a small traveling circus in a near-by town. From them on, he trouped with one circus after another until finally he hit the "big one"....Ringling Bros, and Barnum and Bailey Combined Shows, Inc. and come to make the name of clown an honored and revered one.

Kelly had fooled around drawing pitcures, as most youngsters do, and decided to head for Kansas City and make his way as a cartoonist. He used his skill with the crayons to enter show business combining the artist's touch with a trapeze act a double-feature. At 18, he was playing country fairs, and "one-nighters" in small towns throughout Missouri and Kansas until he received an offer to join the Yankee Robinson circus as a trapeze artist at the pricely salary of $25.00 a week.

He spent several seasons with the Robinson troupe playing one-night stands all over the South and Mid-west. In the winter it was back to the "one-nighters" with an occasional appearance at the St. Louis Police Circus where he became a big favorite.

In 1928, Kelly joined the Sells-Foto circus, then the second largest circus in the world. Tom Mix, the famous cowboy, was the feature attraction. By then he had given up the trapeze to concentrate on his own creation of Willie, the Sad-Faced circus clown. Willie actually came about on Kelly's drawing board and he patterned his routines featuring the sad-eyed clown he had himself created on paper.

In 1931, he joined the A. G. Barnes Combined circus, one of the biggest then on the road and two years later joined the Hagerbeck-Wallace circus that featured Clyde Beatty, for his first appearance in New York City, a town that was to come to love him so well.

Kelly concentrated on night club and theater work in the winters getting up a cartoon-drawing act that became a big hit in many of the bigger after-dark entertainment parlors around the country. He joined the Cole Bros. - Clyde Beatty circus in 1937 for a successful tour, then left for England to appear with the world-famous Bertram Mills London Olympia Show, considered with Ringling, the finest circus in the world. In addition to his appearances and even appeared on television - way back in 1937.

A big favorite in England that year, he played before the Queen of Spain, Emperor Haile Selassie of Ethiopia, Winston Churchill, and the Duke and Duchess of Glouchester.

Then it was back to the United States - a series of indoor circus dates and a triumphant return to England.

In 1938, he received an offer to join Ringling Bros. but he was forced to pass it up. He had signed to appear in the Broadway production "OFF THE GRASS, a musical comedy that featured Ray Bolger, Jimmy Durante, and Jane Froman. Jackie Gleason and Larry Adler were also in a small part, was one of the show's plus features.

He finally made the Big One in 1941, right after he was turned down for military service. Then 42, Kelly volunteered right after Pearl Harbor but was passed up because of age. However, his sone, Emmett Lee Kelly, Jr., represented the family in World War 11.

Kelly finally signed to appear with Ringling Bros. and he was one of the main attractions with that legendary American entertainment institution for many years.

In 1946, he returned to England for another appearance with the Bertram Russell circus and was received with unusual acclaim.

After that, back to Ringling and appearances all over the United States and Canada, entertaining millions.

He even found time to make two motion pictures - as Ed Deets in Universal—International's the Fat Man, the story of a circus clown, and as Willie, in Cecil B. DeMille's THE GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH, with Jimmy Stewart and a cast of thousands.

Kelly left Ringling Bros. two years ago and has been featured on countless television shows and theaters since. The past season, he portrayed the femed Brooklyn Bum as the representative of the Brooklyn Dodgers baseball club before all of the home games of the Dodgers this season. He also made countless other appearances at minor league parks owned by the Dodgers baseball club bef re all of the home games of the Dodgers this season. He also made countless other appearances at minor league parks owned by the Dodgers this summer.

Now he is entering a new phase of his car eer but the purpose is really nothing new. To make people laugh, and after all, he's been doing that for forty years.

MAX PATKIN

(Max Patkin will appear at three home games of the Hawks this season - Ladies Day features - on Sat., Nov. 16; Sat. Dec. 14; and Tues, Feb. 18)

A one-time sore-armed pitcher in the Cleveland Indians' chain system has parlayed a natural ability as a comic into a fascinating occupation as a diamond comedian. His name is Max Patkin - a monicker that has thrilled thousands of baseball fans all over North and South American and who'll be exhibiting his talents to Hawks' basketball patrons this year.

The elongated contortionist is no stranger to St. Louisians who followed the Browns when they represented the American League in this city. True, the Browns didn't play the best baseball at times but Patkin 's antics as their first base coach during Bill Veeck's heyday here was worth more than the price of admission to the game.

Patkin is the dizziest around. He is a natural comic, mimic and contortionist who has panicked the fans whereever he has appeared with his stunts and double-jointed routines.

His ability to lure fans into baseball parks was brought out by Veeck, who first hired him to "clown" for the Cleveland Indians and again signed him as a "coach" when he took over the Browns.

Patkin's pantomine was so hilarious that radio and television sports-casters featured his act when they covered the Browns games. Newspapers throughout the American League wrote rave notices about him, proclaiming Max, the Clown Prince of baseball.

Max became a clown by accident, when he turned to tomfoolery after throwing his arm "out" by pitching for the Wilkes-Barre, Pa. team of the Eastern League. The then Cleveland manager, Lou Boudreau, caught his act in an exhibition game, at Harrisburg, Pa., one night in 1947 and liked it so much that he prompted owner Veeck to sign him to a contract. His success was instantaneous and the turnstiles clicked merrily. Loose-jointed and crane-necked, Max continually convulsed the people with his routines.

Working from the sidelines and the coaching box, Patkin amused the fans with his gyrations, mimics, and bends in double--jointed fashion. His turkey neck stunt, splits, semaphore singles and neck stretching made the fans howl so much that he decided to go out "on the road" as a separate attraction - and he's been doing quite well for himself ever since.

In the past eight seasons, Max has performed in 56 baseball leagues and over 350 organized baseball parks and fans have turned out in record numbers to see him play. And he has been a big success in appearances in South America, Mexico, and Canada.

In many cities he has made two and three appearances in one season, a tribute to his tremendous drawing power.

Patkin is constantly entering new entertainment fields - and over one million people saw him in sportsman's shows throughout the United States the past two years. He has made countless television appearances and he's even appeared at theaters.

Now, he's arranged an act for basketball contests and they say he's as funny as ever. One of the features of his bit will be a number of dance specialities where he will utilize two "sparring" partners.

A funny fellow - this Patkin - and it all started because of a sore arm.

Furman Flash

Heralded by many as the greatest shooter in the history of college basketball, the celebrated Furman Flash returns to the Hawks after spending the better part of two seasons as a Lt. in the Army (Armored Cavalry)....Frank played in 17 games with the Hawks in 1955-56 before entering the Army but in only two of them was he a regular member of the team....He entered the army after scoring 46 points in the first two games of the season....Selvy played in 15 other contests but was forced to commute between St. Louis and Fort Knox, Ky. where he was stationed....Needless to say, the traveling hurt his effectiveness....He came to the Hawks in December of 1954 when the Baltimore Bullets disbanded....He was the first draft choice of the Bullets that year while the Hawks, who had second pick in the NBA draft, chose Bob Pettit....His overall mark in his rookie year was a 19.0 average and he ranked second to Bob Pettit as the Rookie of the Year....Selvy was the fifth top scorer that season, behind Pettit who was fourth....In service, Selvy played with the Fort Knox Tankers to a 19-1 season record and the Second Army Basketball championship....Frank was high man on the club with a 23.4 average although he never played more than half a game....The only losses the Tankers suffered was when Selvy was unable to play due to studies and military training....Selvy was transfered to the US Seventh Army in Germany and was stationed in Bavaria with the 6th Armord Cavalry Regiment....He sparked the 6th's basketball team to a 18-4 record with a season's average of 34.2 points per game....He was the top choice of the Armed Forces all-star cour team that appoared in the Counsil Internationale Sport de Militaire - a tournament that features the top armed forces teams of all of the United Nations....Selvy led the American team to the championship in the tourney which was held in Damascus, Syria....The American team won the tournament again last spring at Istanbul, Turkey with Selvy pacing the club, asusual....Guy Sparrow, New York Knicks rookie; Willie Gardner, former Globetrotter, who was recently purchased by the Knicks' for $30,000 and Larry CostellofSyracuse played with Selvy in Germany....He was the Athletic and Recreation officer of the 11th Cavalry Regiment the past season....Working under Selvy the past season were two other Hawks - both of whom will be out of service next year - Julius McCoy of Michigan State and Tom Hart of Middlebury....Frank's accomplishments at Furman were so many that space does not permit to list them all but in a day of mushrooming emphasis on offensive basketball, many of his scoring marks still stand with awesome margins....

The climax of his three great years at Furman was the 1953-54 season when he averaged 41.7 points a game, scored 100 points in a game against Newberry College, led the Associated Press All-American balloting with more votes than any other player had received in six years and was named United Press Player-Of-The-Year....In his freshman year, when he was restricted to frosh play, Furman won 3 and lost 20 for its worst season in modern times....But the next year, with Selvy, Furman won 18 and lost 6 and Selvy received the U.S. Rubber Company's Award as the most improved player in the country - and Furman as the most improved team....He was the fifth highest scorer in the nation with a 24.6 mark, set a national scoring record of 29.5 in his junior year and set the present mark of 41.7 in his senior year....He was named to the Converse third All-American team as a sophmore, was an unanimous All-American choice as a junior and sweep the nation's honors the following season....He was twice named Southern Conference and South Carolina Player of the Year....He was the first player ever selected to the old Southern Conference tournament team after having played only one game and made the All-Southern and All Southern tourney team in all three of his varsity years....In 1954, he was named by the Metrppolitan sportswriters as the best visiting player to appear in Madison Square Garden during the entire season....At the time he graduated according to the 1955 Official NCAA basketball guide, he held 24 important records and inumerable lesser ones, and only two records remain in the book without his name and they both deal with attempts rather than accomplishments....Born in Corbin,, Ky. in 1932, he led his school to the state schoolboy title and was an All-State selection twice....He comes from a basketball family, brother Curt having played with the Washington Generals while brother Edd was an all-state highschooler and now plays football (end) for Kentucky U.....Frank once scored 42 points against Minneapolis on 9 fielders and 24 free throws, the latter a league mark thst still stands....He averaged 25.6 for his first month of pro ball....Frank was named to the West All-Star game team in his freshman year of pro ball....With Bob Pettit and Cliff Hagan, Selvy gives the Hawks three of the five 1954 All-American team....A high school All-American selection....One of the most popular members of the club....Frank is a fine billiards player who consistently runs 50 balls in pocket billiards.....

CLIFF HAGAN

AGE: 25
HGT: 6-4
WGT: 215

HOMETOWN: St. Louis
COLLEGE: University of Kentucky
BORN: Owensboro, Kentucky

The most pleasant surprise of last year's altogether surprising season, Cliff came with a rush after given an opportunity to play and captured the fancy of the region's court fans....His tremendous rebounding and prolific scoring after Bob Pettit had injured his left arm in mid-February, was one of thebig reasons for the Hawks' winning the Western divisional title....And going to two overtimes in the final of seven games with Boston....Cliff had an overall average of only 5.5 points per game last year but scored 101 points in the fianl 10 games of the season and averaged 17 points per game during the playoffs....With Cliff available for front-line duty right from the start of this season, the Hawks should be infinitely stronger this season....At 6-4, he is the toughest rebounder, forhis size, in the NBA's history....Developed a deadly jump shot to go with a patented hook last year....Has tremendous spring around the boards and consistently outjumps players two or three inches taller than himself.... Obtained from Boston in a deal that saw the Celtics receive the Hawks' first draft choice (Boston took Bill Russell)....Easy Ed Macauley also came "home" as part of the trade....Hagan was a member of the All-Armed Forces basketball team for two years as a member of the Andrews Air Force base post team (Washington, D.C.)....His service team won the All-Armed Forces title three years ago.....Cliff captained his college team, along with Boston's Frank Ramsey, in 1952-53....Hagan, Bob Pettit and Frank Selvy were All-American choices in 1954 together with Ramsey and Tom Gola of Philadelphia....That year, Kentucky won 25 straight games to win the mythical National title....Cliff scored 600 points in 25 games for a 24 points average....Made All-American in 1952 and sat out the 1952-53 season....All-State selection in high school at Owensboro, Ky.....At Kentucky in his junior year, Hagan grabbed 528 rebounds for a national collegiate rebounding record....at that time....mark was then broken by Russell.... He set college single game mark of 42 points against Tennessee in 1952....In four years of college play, he scored 1,745 points in 89 games with an overall shooting percentage of 42.8 and a foul shooting mark of 72.8....Set a dozen Southeastern conference individual marks for scoring and rebounding....He showed plenty of promise on the Hawks pre-season tour of Mexico a year ago when he averaged 35.6 per game for a seven-game trek....Then he injured his back and ankle and was hampered through much of the early season....Cliff attends Washington U. in the summer, studying for a Masters' degree in Physical Education....Works in the Hawks' season ticket department....Plans to teach and coach after his pro basketball days are over - which won't be for a long time....

CHARLES SHARE

AGE: 29

WGT: 235

HOMETOWN: St. Louis
COLLEGE: Bowling Green
BORN: Cincinnati, Ohio

CHUCK

TEAM CAPTAIN

The past three seaons have brought Chuck to the fore as one of the top big men in the NBA....After three fairly non-productive seasons, the former All-American from Bowling Green has come to be noted as one of the game's top centers....Share has averaged around 10 points a game through the past 3½ seasons after coming to the Hawks from Fort Wayne....The Pistons spent nearly $50,000 in cash and players to acquire his services at a time when the National Basketball League and the National Basketball Association were engaged in a basketball "war"....He joined the Hawks in the middle of the 1953-54 season with a 2.3 average, caught fire, and wound up that season scoring 564 points in 68 games....Share rarely plays more than 24 minutes a game, a fact that indicates his per-game average is one of the best in the league - considering that the time played by more productive scorers greatly exceeds his....He is regarded as the "strongest" player in basketball....Third best rebounder on the club....High single-game mark of 30 points scored against Minneapolis and Syracuse two years ago....Scores best against the Boston Celtics....Fort Wayne once paid Share for an entire season even though he did not play a single league game for them.... (this occured during the "war" between the two circuits when Chuck was declared ineligible by the NBA due to a claim on his services by Boston).....He is in charge of the Hawks' pre-season ticket sales, a position he has held for the past two summers....Share is a fine tennis player, considered good enough to play in area tournaments....He once directed a youth program for the Fort Wayne Pistons parent company, overseeing the activities of 23,000 children.... Captain of his college's National Invitational Tournament club in 1949....Reported this year in the best shape of his career

JACK McMAHON

AGE: 28
HGT: 6-1 MAC
WGT: 185
HOMETOWN: St. Louis
COLLEGE: St. John's University (Brooklyn)
BORN: Brooklyn, N.Y.

A former All-American selection in college, Jack came to the Hawks two years ago in one of the biggest trades in NBA history.... The Hawks gave up Dick Ricketts, their first draft choice that year, along with rookie guard Chris Harris, for McMahon and veteran Jack Coleman....And the new newcomers helped the club tie for second place that season and both were instrumental in the team's Western Division title win last season....He captained St. John's U. during his senior year in college.....scoring 417 points in his senior season, 1951-52....Jack started 91 games for St. John's and his club won 76 of them....He played in three National Invitational Tournaments and two NCAA tourneys and Olympic trials....A Navy veteran, he played service basketball at Annapolis where he was stationed as an enlisted man....McMahon is considered one of the best setshots in the game - a throwback to the days when the two-handed set was considered the most potent weapon in the sport.. ..He seems to do his best scoring against the New York Knicks hitting over 28 points against them five times the past two seasons....A good defensive player, he was overweight when he joined the club two years, but slimmed down last year to enjoy his best all-around season in five years of pro play....Jack set a new team record with 12 assists last season when he finished second to Boston's Bob Cousy in that department....A great high school cager in high school when he was considered the best backcourt prospect in the New York city area....He is rated as one of St. John's all-time greats - quite an honor when you consider the host of court greats who played for the Redmen.... Moved to St. Louis this past summer and joined Chuck Share and Cliff Hagan as members of the Hawks' promotion department.

DWIGHT (RED) MORRISON

AGE: 25
HGT: 6-8
WGT: 215
HOMETOWN: Seattle, Wash.
COLLEGE: Idaho
BORN: Walla Walla, Washington

Acquired from the Boston Celtics five days before the Hawks opened pre-season training this fall, the big redhead from the Far West could be a "real sleeper" for the Hawks this year....He played two seasons in the NBA with the Celtics but was not too impressive offensively although he admittedly had very little opportunity to score with the power-packed Bostonians.....Red played high school basketball at Walla Walla, the twon world-famous as the city with the two first names....He made the All-State team in his senior year - 1950 - then entered Idaho U. where he became that school's greatest basketball player....Never an outstanding scorer, Red still managed to score 15 points per game during his junior and senior years in college and was chosen to the Northern Division of the Pacific Coast conference All-Star team....He was a good football player (end) in high school and also lettered on the baseball nine....He attended Idaho from 1950 through 1954....A good rebounder, he was a rugged performer in this season's pre-season tour against the Syracuse Nationals and Detroit Pistons, averaged 8.9 per game....One of the better outside shots on the club, Morrison will be a spot player this year - playing the corners....With Boston in his rookie year he once grabbed 14 rebounds in the first half against New York - 11 of them in the first quarter for what was then a team record.... He was the Celtics second draft choice in 1954....Red did not play professional basketball last year....He was in the construction business last year and also attended Idaho U. where he studied for his Masters' Degree....

MED PARK

AGE: 24
HGT: 6-2
WGT: 205
HOMETOWN: St. Louis
COLLEGE: Missouri
BORN: Lexington, Missouri

One of the most determined players in the league, Med was added to the Hawks' roster in August of 1955....An All-Big Seven selection in his senior year at Missouri, Park is the strongest "small man" in the league....He can play players four and five inches taller than him without losing any effectiveness....One of the most spirited players in the league, Park is a good example of how much desire counts in professional sports....Park played 67 games against the Harlem Globetrotters in South American two years ago....Never a great scorer, he started to use contact lenses at the end of last season and his shooting improved immediately....Slater Martin had been using contacts for years and he advised Med to make the switch....Park scored 800 points over a four-year college career averaging 15.4 per game as a senior when he captained the Mizzou cagers....He played in the East-West Shrine game in Kansas City in 1955 and was a standout... Last year, he scored 24 points and 22 in the final period at Fort Wayne against Minneapolis, the latter mark setting a new Fort Wayne record....Park entered the army under the six-months plan last May....A great high school quarterback, he did not play the game in college, much to the dismay of Missouri's Don Faurot... The Missouri Rocket was married last June....He has developed a one-hander that should make him more effective from the outside this year....
